Of Vytaylle and vytayllours.

De was defended by the statute of Yorke. no. xii. Ed. ii. That no mynster in Cyrie or Boroughe, whiche by reason of his offyce oughte to le the assyle of wyne and vytaylle kept, shuld beynge in offyce, marchaunte buynes & vytaylles in grosse or at retale on payne to forsayte the lame. But our most gracious Coueraygne lorde Kyng Henry the viij. the. iij. yere of his mosse noble reygne / in his Parlyamente holden at Westmynster, the iij. day of februarye, hath repelled the same Statute and enacted by auctorite of the same Parlyamente, for many byghe consideracions, that whan any vytayller is chosen to beare offyce in any Cyrie, towne or borough, corporate, whiche for the tyme beynge in offyce, shulde haue the assyllynge and correction of vytaylle that than. ii. dyscret and honest men of the same cyrie, towne or borough, corporate, nyether of both beynge a vytayller shalbe chosen by the communalte, lyke wyse as the sayd offyce is which two or one, the other beynge absent, with the sayd officer shal set the sylle and pryces of vytaylles for the tyme the sayd vytayller shal abyde in his sayd offyce and after the pryces and assyles so set, it is lesull for the sayd officers, to marchaunt and sell wyne, and other vytaylles in grosse or at retale without forsaytynge.

It was enacted the. xxij. yere of. E. iij. Ca. bi. that bouchers, schemongers, Inholders, brewers, bakers, pulters, and al othher sellers of what soeuer vytaylles shuld sel for a reasonable pryce respect had to farrre and nere carpage of the same vytaylles / and he that doth otherwyse and is conuict therof shal pay the doubled that he receyued to the partie domaged, or in his defeaute, to whome that wyl sue in this behalfe.

And the mayres, and barlyes of cyries, townes, boroughes, portes, porres, Rothe pates, hain gobert dead wyre of the plemys, and to leuey the foresaid pnalte to cheir bseynt wholl sure the transgressours were comaret. And in case the mayres and bayffers be conuict befoze the kynges Justice's, as they be in receyving of the premisses, they shal be compelled by the same Justice's, to pay thise the worth of the thinges sold to him that is damaged, or els in his behalf, to another that sueth and yet farther they shal be punysshed at the kynges pleasure.

It was also enacted, anno. xxi. E. ij. ca. v. That who that byngeth by tayles to London, by the bylande or water, may freely sell the same to whom he wyl, without dysturbance of ffishmonger, boucher, pulter or other. And that the mayre & Aldermen shulde redresse the defaultes of ffishmongers/bouchers and pulters, by wyle as of them that sell palled wyne or ale. Notwithstandynge charter of lybertie, customes or other punysshes, made or vsed to the contrary, on payne of .xx. marke for the first defaute, for the seconde. ij. .xx. marke, & for the thyrde defaute to lose theyr faunchise.

It was enacted, anno. vi. R. ii. ca. ix. That bytaylor in no cite, nor towne, thorowgh Englande shulde occupy the offyce of a Judge, except for lake of other suffeyment, and than whyle he is in that office of a Judge, he nor none of his shal sel no bytaylor, on payne of forfayture.

And the. vii. yere of the sayd kyng. R. ca. xi. the statutes made the. v. and. vi. yere of his reygne, touchynge ffishmongers, byntners, and other bytaylor of London are repelled.

Also it was enacted, anno. xii.
